RESTORE Hancock

Millions in BP funds coming to Coast

MDEQ on Tuesday announced nearly $38 million in RESTORE funds will soon make their way to the Mississippi Gulf Coast, including more than $4 million for the PRCC Aerospace and Aviation Academy to be built at Stennis International Airport in Kiln.

State and local officials announced this week that Hancock County is about to reap huge dividends from the restoration funds BP is paying in the wake of the 2010 Deepwater Horizon oil disaster -- including $4 million for Pearl River Community College's workforce development project at Stennis International Airport.

The Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality hosted a "Restoration Summit" in Biloxi on Tuesday to announce 10 new and supplemental projects to be funded from the more than $37.8 million coming to the Coast.

"These projects continue our efforts to ensure funds are spent in strategic ways to restore and enhance our natural resources and our economy following the Deepwater Horizon oil spill," Gov. Phil Bryant said at the event. "The continued economic growth of South Mississippi relies on many components such as tourism, the seafood industry, and the natural resources enjoyed by sportsmen, recreationists, and beach goers. We will continue to implement projects that benefit the environment and improve quality of life for our residents and our visitors."

State Sen. Philip Moran, a Hancock County native, said one of the most significant results of Tuesday's announcement will be the $4 million added to PRCC'S Aviation and Aerospace Academy to

The project, recommended by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission's Aviation and Aerospace Cluster Optimization plan in June 2017, will enhance workforce training in Hancock County by supporting the establishment of a workforce training center focused on existing and future industry workforce training needs.

"Today marked a great moment for Hancock County continuing higher education with Pearl River Community College and the latest round of 2018 BP coastal funding," Moran said. "An additional $4 million will be given to the PRCC work force development center soon to be located at Stennis Airport. This will make the total so far to

Utility board aims to lower operating costs

BY CASSANDRA FAYRE

The Hancock County Utility Authority Board on Wednesday discussed the bids for professional services for operation and maintenance of water and wastewater facilities.

The board received proposal packages from two companies: Inframark and Utility Partners.

Bill Mitchell with Brown, Mitchell, and Alexander spoke to the board about the process.

Last week, the board opened the bids and hosted interviews with Inframark and Utility Partners. Board members Blaine LaFontaine and Brent Anderson attended the interviews, Mitchell said.

Mitchell said that during the interviews, the company representatives and those from HCUA compared the proposals with the HCUA's approved 2018-29 budget for waste and wastewater which totals $1,897,687. The approved 2018-19 budget, less contractor line items, is $1,185,418. The difference between the budgets is $712,269.

Space Center ushers in Autumn with RS-25 engine test for SLS

SEA COAST ECHO

NASA ushered in the Gulf Coast fall season with force Nov. 15, conducting a full-power, full-duration 650-second RS-25 engine test on the A-1 Test Stand at Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, where the agency is testing engines to help power its new Space Launch System (SLS) rocket.

Operators fired development engine No. 0525 to a 113 percent thrust level for 60 seconds during the test, marking only the second time they have achieved the highest RS-25 power level.

Engineers first fired development engine No. 0528 to that level during a February test at Stennis. Four RS-25 engines will help power SLS at launch, supplying a combined 2 million pounds of thrust and working in conjunction with a pair of solid rocket boosters to provide more than 8 million pounds of thrust.

RS-25 engines for initial missions are former space shuttle engines, designed to provide a specific power level, categorized as 100 percent thrust.

Through the space shuttle years, the engines were modernized to provide additional thrust up to 109 percent of the original level.

NBE fourth graders host election; elect class president

SEA COAST ECHO JUNIOR
REPORTER

Last Wednesday, Dana Brown's fourth grade class at North Bay Elementary had an election day to see who would be class president.

According to the Oxford dictionary, an election is a "formal and organized choice by vote of a person for a political office or other position."

Before the election, Brown told the class that people have to be 18 and older to vote.

She also helped her students define vocabulary words such as ballot, candidate, civic responsibility, platform, and suffrage.

Ten students ran for president and then the class voted for five students to give speeches for election day. Before the election, her students registered to vote.

The class voted for who they would like to be president.

After the vote, there was a tie between Libby Benigno and Imani Brown.

Brown held a debate with Benigno and Imani Brown.

After the debate, the class decided who had the best answers to the questions and voted again.

Benigno won class president and chose Nia Singleton as vice-president.

Benigno said she wanted to be president because it would be a good experience.

"I would be a good leader and scholar for the class," she said.

Benigno said she does not think being president is a hard job because she can be laid back and encourage people.

Her goals as president are having better rewards such as slime parties for spectacular behavior and big improvements in test scores.

The winner of the election in Mrs. Magan Russell's homeroom was Jalynn Herndon.

Brown said she wanted her students to learn "how their democracy works by applying vocabulary we learned in the classroom to an actual election process."

The elected president and vice president will consult with Brown and Russell to decide what their responsibilities will be.

Class president candidates also made campaign posters prior to the election.

Kevin Allemand Jr. selected "Teacher of the Year"

SEA COAST ECHO

VFW Post 2880 of Diamondhead announced that Kevin Allemand of Hancock County High School was selected Teacher of The Year for 2018. Kevin teaches U.S. Government and Economics at Hancock High School. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Education from the University of Mississippi, and a Master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi, with emphasis on Student Affairs Administration. He was selected as the Hancock High School STAR Teacher for 2018 and was named the 2018 University Of Mississippi Practitioner Of Distinction. He epitomizes professionalism and is a true leader.

Additionally, Kevin sponsors multiple student organizations. As sponsor of the History and Government Club, he has taken students across Mississippi and to Washington D.C. for history competitions, but he is most known for his annual Look Around Mississippi trip. Six years ago Kevin began taking students on a four day journey around Mississippi so as to foster an understanding and appreciation of Mississippi and American history. To date, students have visited over 20 Mississippi towns and cities and have visited museums, heard lectures from university professors and had the opportunity to meet state legislators, Governor Bryant and Civil Rights Leaders Charles Evers and Ed King. Students come to class on the first day asking "Where are we going this year?" Moreover, last year he brought every HHS student in a social studies class to visit the traveling Vietnam Wall.

As the Chair of the History Department, he works diligently to ensure HHS students receive the quality education they deserve. He is always searching for new curriculum resources and always striving to make Hancock High a better place to learn.

His Teacher Of The Year credentials will now be forwarded to the VFW District 1 for further competition, and from there to the VFW state level, and from there to the VFW National level. We fully expect Kevin to win at every level of competition.

Wicker Supports Critical Missions of the Coast Guard

Senate Passes Bipartisan Bill to Reauthorize the Service

After years of negotiations, the Senate has passed a two-year reauthorization of the Coast Guard. The bipartisan legislation is exhaustive, just as are the Coast Guard's wide-ranging missions. Not only does the bill support the tens of thousands of Americans in the service's active-duty, reserve, civilian, and auxiliary forces, but it anticipates the Coast Guard's long-term needs.

The Coast Guard is responsible for carrying out 11 core missions for the American people. One of those missions is search-and-rescue, which Mississippians saw first-hand after Hurricane Katrina. That mission has been repeatedly fulfilled over the past two years as active hurricane seasons brought devastating storms to U.S. coastlines and put American lives at risk.

Another mission is to stop illegal drugs from entering the United States, and the Coast Guard continues to tally major drug busts. Last year, the service set a record for its counter-drug operations, intercepting more than 455,000 pounds of cocaine valued at $6 billion. On an average day, the Coast Guard could seize upwards of 1,000 pounds of illegal narcotics.

New Ships, Needed Maintenance

To be effective in these missions, the men and women of the Coast Guard need technologically advanced equipment. Mississippi's shipbuilders have risen to this challenge, building all of the Legend-class national security cutters in the Coast Guard's fleet. The value of these ships is recognized in the Coast Guard bill, which approves the purchase of three more.

Another provision in the bill recognizes urgent maintenance needs, in particular for the Polar Star, our nation's only heavy polar icebreaker. At 42 years old, this vessel is 12 years past its intended service life. However, the strategic importance of the Arctic and its potential as a shipping corridor continue to rise. The United States faces serious geopolitical competition from countries like Russia that have aggressively built a large icebreaker fleet.

The Coast Guard bill also addresses concerns from

And just like that Daylight Savings Times is gone

Hold on! What happened to the fall? Is winter here already? Where did all the daylight go? How can daylight savings end already? Can it really be that the sun is now setting at 5 p.m? Horrors!

Alas, that's life in the latitudes of southeastern United States. Summer seems to last forever with its relentless heat and then, bam! just like that, somebody turns off the lights.

It would be different if we lived near the equator. There would be no seasons. No cold winter. No hot summer. Every day would be 12 hours.

The best living environments in the world are in South America and Africa. Vast regions are on the equator yet sit on elevated continental planes that keep the weather cool and perfect year round.

Sao Paulo Brazil is one of the most populous cities in the world. You can see why. The hottest month, February, has average high temperatures of 84 degrees. The coldest month, July, has average high temperatures of 71.

In Africa, Nairobi, Kenya, which sits on the equator is even better. The hottest month is February with an average high of 80 degrees. The coldest month is July with an average high of 72 degrees.

Even at sea level, it's nice on the equator. Libreville, the capital of Gabon, Africa, has average highs of 86 degrees in the summer and 80 degrees in the winter.

Mexico's 20 million people is not accidental. Summer highs average 80 degrees. Winter highs average 72 degrees. Talk about nice!

Even Australia has it much milder than Mississippi. Sydney's average high is 80 degrees in the summer and 64 degrees in the winter.

Jackson is much less mild. Our average highs are 92 degrees in the summer. That number would be higher if not for the cooling effects of countless afternoon thunderstorms. Unfortunately, it's hard to enjoy cooler weather when it's raining.

Jackson winter highs are around 57 degrees. Warm enough to enjoy the outdoors on most days, but still cold enough to feel like winter. Still, that's a 35 degree difference between the average high in summer and the average high in winter. That's a huge swing.

Before we start complaining, though, think of the millions living in Chicago where there's a 52 degree difference between the average summer high of 84 and the average winter high of 32.

On average, Mississippians can't complain. The average temperature for the entire year in our state is a very pleasant 66 degrees.

Many people are not aware that the days don't grow longer or shorter at a steady rate throughout the year. Not at all. During the summer and winter months, the total hours of daylight remains about the same. The change begins at the start of spring and fall, during which the days lengthen and shorten at a very rapid rate.

During the spring and fall solstice, days grow longer by a few extra seconds each day. But in the middle of the fall and spring, the days grown longer by two minutes.

Put another way, the rate of daylight change is 60 times greater per day in the spring and fall than it is in the summer and winter. If it seems like we have no spring or fall, it's because we don't.

This is simply because the earth is tilted 23 degrees on its axis as it revolves around the sun. It's a calculus equation: (f(x) - f(a))/(x - a). Like everything else in life, the devil is in the details.

Thinking about Health: Both costs and coverage matter when choosing insurance

It's open enrollment time for medical insurance, and for people having to shop in the individual insurance market; the choices are as confusing as ever.

Television ads splashed over the airwaves as the midterm electioneering came to a close didn't help much. By the end of the campaign it was hard to find any candidate — Democrat or Republican — who didn't want to cover people with preexisting health conditions.

The devil was in the details, though, and how politicians suggested people should be covered remained mostly a mystery.

Guest Column by TrudyLieberman Rural Health News Service

In Missouri, for example, Senator-elect Josh Hawley, as the state's attorney general, signed onto a Texas lawsuit that would wipe out coverage for pre-existing conditions while at the same time running campaign ads saying that he supported "forcing insurance companies to support all preexisting conditions." How many Missourians picked up on the contradiction?

Besides the muddled campaign messages, big changes in the individual marketplace can easily trip up families searching for a good policy.

The individual mandate — the requirement that nearly everyone have insurance — is gone beginning in 2019. That means there are no penalties for not having health insurance.

The Trump administration has also resurrected two kinds of insurance policies that in the old days caused consumers lots of problems: association policies sold by groups that band together to buy insurance and the so-called short-term policies that are in force for only a short time. This year the Trump administration says a short-term policy can last for three years.

The idea behind these two kinds of policies is to make insurance cheaper. In some cases it can be far cheaper than an Affordable Care Act policy sold on your state's shopping exchange.

There are good reasons why these plans are cheaper than policies complying with the Affordable Care Act, which cover more conditions such as mental

Mississippi Counties Designated Disaster Areas by USDA

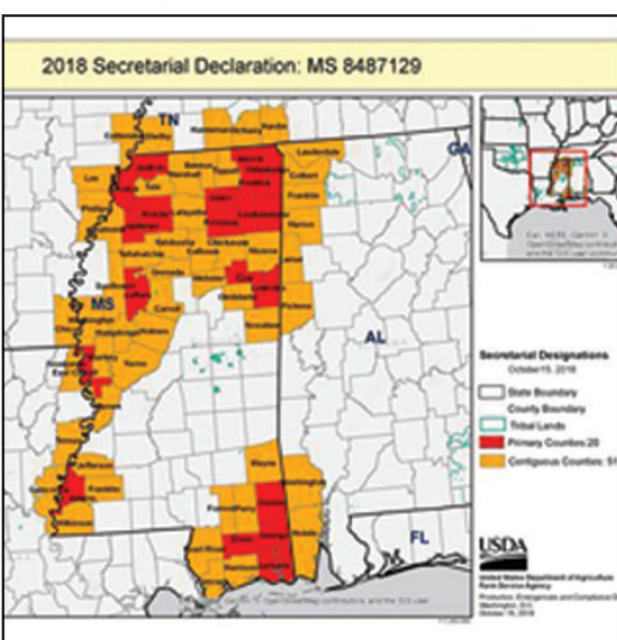

SEA COAST ECHO

Twenty Mississippi counties have been designated as primary disaster areas by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue due to crop losses caused by excessive rainfall and prolonged flooding that occurred from April 1 to June 30, 2018.

Farm operators in the designated primary counties and the counties contiguous to the primary counties are eligible to be considered for certain assistance from the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA), provided that eligibility requirements are met. This assistance includes FSA emergency loans. Farmers in eligible areas have eight months from the date of the Secretarial disaster declaration to apply for emergency loans.

“I appreciate Governor Phil Bryant’s assistance in requesting a disaster designation, and I appreciate Secretary Perdue and USDA for their prompt review and approval of our request. This designation will provide our farmers with needed assistance. I encourage our farmers in designated counties to reach out to their local FSA offices,” said Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Andy Gipson.

The primary counties named in the Secretarial disaster designation include: Adams, Alcorn, Clay, DeSoto, George, Greene, Issaquena, Itawamba, Jackson, Lee, Leflore, Lowndes, Panola, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Quitman, Stone, Tishomingo, Tunica, and Union. Contiguous counties in Mississippi include: Benton, Calhoun, Carroll, Chickasaw, Coahoma, Forrest, Franklin, Grenada, Hancock, Harrison, Holmes, Humphreys, Jefferson, Lafayette, Marshall, Monroe, Noxubee, Oktibbeha, Pearl River, Perry, Sharkey, Sunflower, Tallahatchie, Tate, Tippah, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Webster, Wilkinson, Yalobusha, and Yazoo. Contiguous counties and parishes in the adjacent states of Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Tennessee are also included. Farmers impacted in these areas can obtain further information from their local FSA offices.

America’s commercial vessel operators, who have faced a patchwork of regulations regarding a vessel’s ballast water discharge.

The discharge of ballast water is important to a ship’s buoyancy, but it can also have an environmental impact.

The fear is that the discharge of ballast water could inadvertently introduce an invasive and potentially harmful species into a new environment. To combat these concerns, regulations have been put into place over time by the Coast Guard, EPA, and 25 states.

The Coast Guard bill will simplify the situation with the adoption of a uniform, science-based national standard for ballast water discharge.

I have been a longtime proponent of streamlining the current regulations, even authoring a standalone bill to do so. I am glad key provisions of my bill were included in the Coast Guard’s reauthorization and have earned the Senate’s support.

The approach combines the enforcement capability of the Coast Guard and the environmental expertise of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The value the Coast Guard provides to the American people is evident in the scope of this reauthorization bill and the dedication by lawmakers to get it right.

The service’s diverse missions are critical to public safety and national security, as evidenced by the vote of 94 to 6 on the bill’s final passage in the Senate.

health treatment and pregnancy care and end restrictions on lifetime coverage.

The ACA-compliant plans’ biggest protection of all may be the right to buy a policy no matter what your existing health condition is, and the ACA has opened the door for millions of Americans to buy health coverage for the first time.

However, that protection so valuable to sick people comes with a trade-off: higher premiums. Since insurers selling in the state exchanges can no longer exclude sick people, they need to compensate for the greater risk people with heart disease or cancer or other major illnesses present by charging higher premiums.

Sellers of association policies can make their offerings very unattractive to sick people by limiting the number of doctors in their networks who treat certain costly diseases like HIV-AIDS, for example. If people with this disease can’t find a physician in the network, they’ll likely pick another plan.

In comparing policies this year, first consider how much you can pay. Remember the government helps those with incomes below 400 percent of the federal poverty level pay the premiums, if they buy a policy in one of the state exchanges.

Next, closely examine the coverage. Some people may find that a policy that covers two visits to the doctor is fine, but a person with a chronic condition won’t. Others may find that that doesn’t offer comprehensive coverage might work. But if you’re worried about unexpected illness, buy the best policy in your exchange that you can afford.

causes the seasons. They think the earth is closer to the sun in the summer and farther away in the winter. Wrong!

In fact, the earth is three million miles closer to the sun in the winter because the earth’s orbit has an “eccentricity” of 1.7 percent.

This would cause hotter summers in the southern hemisphere except for one thing: The southern hemisphere has half the amount of land as the northern hemisphere. The cooling effect of the extra water more than offsets the extra 4 degrees caused by the sun being closer during the southern hemisphere summer.

Hot temperatures in summer are caused by two things: First, the days are a maximum of four hours and 16 minutes longer in summer. That means there’s 46 percent more daylight in the peak of summer compared to the peak of winter.

Second, the sunlight in winter hits Mississippi at a greater angle, causing the rays to be dispersed over a greater area. This spreading effect lowers the ability of the sun’s rays to heat the surface.

This spring I predicted a super hot summer because the winter was so cold. A hot summer offsets a cold winter, regressing to the mean.

So much for my theory. We actually had a much cooler summer than normal. I have tried in vain to find a website where I could compile accurate stats. But we hardly had any days over 100 degrees which is a rarity.

Now the El Nino is coming, which should bring us a wetter, milder winter.

One thing we do have in Mississippi is rain. Along with Louisiana, Mississippi is the wettest place in the northern hemisphere. Most of the world struggles to find enough water. That’s one problem Mississippi doesn’t have to worry about. The greenery and fecundity is beautiful.

I would hate to live in the north, but I do envy their summers. They have the sunlight at the same time they have the nice weather. Our milder weather comes when the sunlight is greatly diminished, so it’s harder to enjoy it.

I have made peace with Mississippi summers. Thank goodness, fashion has adapted. Men are no longer expected to wear dark business suits in July. Advances in clothing technology has made the heat much more bearable. Panty hose fortunately died out decades ago. AC technology gets cheaper and better by the decade.

November 1 is the day I change my wardrobe. All the lightweight summer cloths go in plastic storage bins for six months. Out comes the heavier long sleeve shirts and thicker pants. (I never wear shorts because of bugs.)

I bore easily and enjoy change, so Mississippi weather is really perfect for me. We get all four seasons, but mildly so. I don’t get tired of the colder weather until mid-February, which is when spring begins here. Even in the dead of winter, I have few problems playing golf or tennis or any other outdoor activity. This is truly a blessing.

I know everybody is worried about global warming, especially young people. Indeed, God calls us to be good stewards of his creation. But as I observe how perfectly fine-tuned the world and the universe is, I have faith that a force more powerful than humanity will make sure we continue been modified again to provide up to 111 percent of original thrust, with the 113 percent hot fires at Stennis allowing operators to test a margin of safety. The test also marked the third time an RS-25 engine has been fired for the longer duration.

Typical tests run 500 seconds, the amount of time (8 minutes, 20 seconds) the engine must fire to power the rocket from launch into space. The 650-second duration represents the time three RS-25 engines would have to fire to burn up propellant and power the rocket into orbit, if the fourth shut down early during an SLS launch.

The longer time also allows operators to schedule and meet more performance objectives during a test.

This hot fire was also the sixth on this engine in a current series of acceptance tests for RS-25 engine controllers that will be used on future SLS flights.

The new controller is a key component of recent engine modifications. It operates as the brain of the engine, helping it to communicate with the rocket and controlling engine operation and internal health diagnostics.

The hot fire also featured continued testing of two innovative engine components – a 3D-printed pogo accumulator to dampen pressure oscillations that can cause flight instability and a main combustion chamber fabricated using a new hot isostatic pressing (HIP) bonding technique that saves considerable time and money. RS-25 tests continue NASA's progress toward Exploration Mission-1, where the new rocket will send an Orion spacecraft around the Moon and back to test critical capabilities needed to carry astronauts farther in space than ever before, and eventually to Mars.

On Exploration Mission-2, SLS will carry astronauts aboard Orion on a return to deep space. Prior to those flights, NASA will test the SLS core stage on the B-2 Test Stand at Stennis. RS-25 tests at Stennis are conducted by a combined team of NASA Aerojet Rocketdyne and Syncom Space Services operators.

Aerojet Rocketdyne is the RS-25 prime contractor. Syncom Space Services is the prime contractor for Stennis facilities and operations.

funded through the Natural Resource Damage Assessment program.

Currently six miles of living shoreline protection is complete and approximately 1.5 miles of additional marsh shoreline protection will be constructed with this new funding. This project protects and restores the Hancock County marsh complex which is the largest contiguous marsh complex in Mississippi.

• Beneficial Use of Dredge Materials for Marsh Creation and Restoration in Mississippi ($12 million) –

This program will create new marsh as well as restoring and enhancing existing marsh through the beneficial use (BU) of dredge materials.

This program will support the dredging needs in the three coastal counties and may utilize accumulated spoil materials to facilitate the material necessary for marsh restoration.

• Mississippi Sound Oyster Shell Recycling Program ($650,000) – This program will support the collection and utilization of discarded oyster shells for oyster cultch placement in the Mississippi Sound to support oyster restoration efforts. Additionally, this program will include an economic sustainability analysis.

• Gulf Seafood Marketing Program ($400,000) –

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources' Seafood Marketing Program promotes the sale and use of Gulf seafood to consumers, dealers, and restaurant owners and chefs to benefit the local seafood industry and economy.

totalled $1,135,714, making it $423,445 over the difference. Utility Partners' bid price totalled $1,006,076, making it $293,269 over the difference.

During discussions, contractor representatives sat down with HCUA representatives and went through each line item, Mitchell said.

After that, Inframark's difference decreased to about $417,000, with Utility Partners decreasing to about $113,000, Mitchell said.

LaFontaine said that each bid also included a different structure of management.

"But even if you look at the actual costs," he said, "they're still proposing something higher than we budget."

Mitchell said the board needs to consider the different aspects of each company and complete the individual score cards.

The board decided to bring the score cards back to its next meeting, which is scheduled for Dec. 6 at 4:30 p.m.

The board closed the meeting for an executive session to discuss "personnel" matters.

The board exited the session with no action taken.

Tigers split with Panthers on hardwood

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Bay High Tigers split a pair of games on the hardwood with the Pascagoula Panthers on Tuesday evening at the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium/Mike Necaie Court.

The Lady Tigers (2-2) were down early and went into the locker room with a 15-12 deficit at intermission.

However, Kylarn Kilpatrick exploded for 13 points in the third period as Bay High surged ahead for a 31-27 lead heading into the final stanza.

McKenzie Favre and Jady Sheppard complemented Kilpatrick in the fourth period as Bay High claimed the victory 44-37.

Kilpatrick led all scorers with 28 points.

Bay High head coach Debbie Triplett stated, "Kylarn Kilpatrick shot the ball well tonight but we have to get her some help. We are a young team making young mistakes. There is potential with this group and they are making strides. We all want them to be the very best but game experience is what these girls need."

In other girls basketball action on Tuesday, the Hancock Lady Hawks defeated St. Martin 42-41.

The Tigers (2-1) fell to Pascagoula 70-53 after getting behind early to a team that was playing above the rim.

The Panthers jumped out to a 19-8 first period lead and pushed that to a 42-22 lead at halftime.

The Tigers rode the back of Kyren Galloway in the second half who scored 24 points to lead Bay High after not scoring at all in the first period. Elijah Curry and Khalil Bell both added 11 points for Bay High.

Bay High head coach Randy McCrory commented, "We are being tested early in our non-division schedule. This is how a team gets better playing a team like Pascagoula. We showed some good things on the floor tonight and I was proud of how we did not give up and kept battling to the end. We are still young and looking for right combinations."

In other boys basketball action on Tuesday, SSC (1-2) defeated Gautier 46-38 on the road while Pass Christian lost to Harrison Central 76-61. The Hancock Hawks (1-3) also fell to St. Martin 59-56 at home.

In upcoming action, the Tigers are set to travel to Ocean Springs on November 27th before returning home to open division play against Pass Christian on November 30th.

The Hancock Hawks will play in Thanksgiving tournament action on November 24th against Loranger while the Lady Hawks travel to play Picayune in the Poplarville tournament on November 24th. The Pass Christian Pirates will host Picayune on November 29th. The Rocks are set to play at Picayune on Monday, November 19th while OLA hosts Purvis on November 26th.

See you at the game!

Take a picture, it'll last longer

We have not been out much the last couple days, but it is looking like we are going to get a break in the weather. I wanted to offer y'all a little help, after you catch that next big fish. Keep reading, the Christmas gift idea will "develop" near the end.

I always try to get online, and check out the fishing photos, to see what everyone's catching. It never fails, I almost always get infuriated, when looking at fish pictures. Stay with me here. I never get upset to see other people catching fish. I'm happy to see people catching fish. I get mad as heck, when I see people not taking a good picture with their catch.

Seeing someone holding a trophy fish (any fish really) in their kitchen, garage, etc just gets to me. No matter what the species is, they look nothing they are supposed to after sitting in a ice chest all day. The land background just makes the pictures look silly too. People PLEASE, Take the extra minute or two, and snap a couple pictures while you're out on the water. In a pinch, the dock or boat launch will work.

I'm by no means photographer, but I like to think I know the basics. The technology these days, can correct the majority of our mistakes. If you're taking the picture, put the sun at your back. Watch for shadows on your subject(s), and move around till the shadows are off your subject(s).

You can crop your pictures if you need to, but all you need to see is face(s) and fish. Go wild, and take a bunch of shots, especially if it's a big fish or sentimental moment. If it's someone's first catch, capture that moment. Even if you don't have a big fish, or any fish, snap a few with friends and family you're fishing with.

When you get home, editing photos is very simple. If you don't know how to do it, find a teenager, they will make your picture look flawless.

Now, here is your Christmas idea. If you are looking for a gift for that sportsman in your life, here you go. Few people actually develop and frame their photos. Walmart or websites like Vistaprint, can do it very easily. Pick up a cool frame and Presto, you got yourself a Christmas gift that will be adored for ever. If you have a bunch of pictures, make them a calendar. Trust me on this, you will knock the socks of any true sportsman with a framed fishing photo.

As always, have fun and be safe.

Tigers need experience to continue postseason run

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Bay High Tigers boys basketball team has been a constant in the postseason picture in Class 4A for the last four consecutive seasons and six of the last seven years. However, to continue that run head coach Randy McCrory stated that he needed his young group to mature quickly and gain experience in their new roles.

He strengthened that statement by highlighting that he has just one returning starter this year in Kyren Galloway.

McCrory commented, "Our expectation each year entering the season is to win the division title to advance in a good position into the postseason. Our approach to that is a daily process of getting better each time we touch the court so that when February comes, we are playing our best basketball."

McCrory added that he is hoping for leadership roles from his seniors Chase Lewis, Maxwell Lewis and Kaleb Leavens. He also has a host of juniors to mix into rotations in Khalil Bell, Elijah Curry and CJ Loftin.

McCrory continued, "This group has a great work ethic and are coachable. They have shown the ability to be solid defenders. We have to work on depth within our roster so we can have multiple rotations and more poise in situational play."

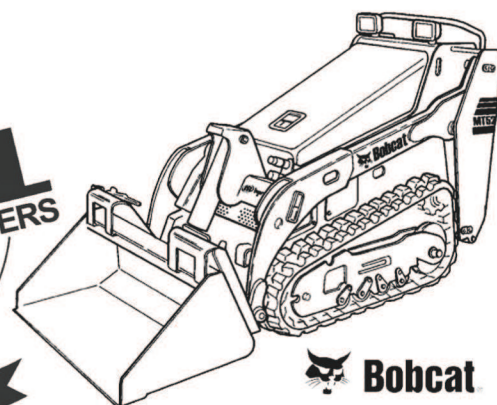

The Tigers are two-time defending Division 8-4A champions and their tough non-division schedule will help test their mettle prior to the division run.

McCrory ended, "This is a young group that has accepted the challenge of gaining experience. It will be a process and they are aware of that."

The Tigers are currently 2-1 in the early season with holiday tournament action around the corner.

Matsenbaugh signs with PRCC in soccer

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

Max Matsenbaugh, a senior midfielder at Saint Stanislaus College, recently signed a National Letter of Intent to play soccer with Pearl River Community College.

Max is expected to compete as a midfielder at PRCC after also being recruited by Hinds CC, MGCCC, Millsaps and Belhaven.

Matsenbaugh commented, "PRCC presented themselves as an extremely organized and competitive program where I can grow as a player and a student. Their formations on the field are very similar to what we do here at SSC which will help with my transition to the next level. I am looking forward to having the opportunity to continue to play soccer and play the game close to home where friends and family can see me compete."

Max has played varsity soccer for the last four years and has advanced to the post season each year. He has been a member of state championship teams his freshman and junior years while also winning the Division 8-4A title the last three years.

SSC head coach Danny Patton stated, "This is a very big achievement for Max. He really developed as a player last year and caught the eyes of programs during our playoff run. Millsaps and Belhaven started recruiting him early. He is one of the best attacking midfielders in the state. PRCC plans to play him at midfield and he will be a solid piece of their plan going forward."

Matsenbaugh added, "I want to thank all those who had a hand in helping me progress to this point on the field and off.

Playing at SSC has been a privilege. It is a very well run program and the players are beneficiaries of that."

PRCC is a member of the Mississippi Association of Community and Junior Colleges and is the defending state champion in men's soccer.

Lady Tigers start young hope to finish mature

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

Veteran Bay High Lady Tigers' head basketball coach Debbie Triplett looked exasperated after a recent game despite the fact that her troops pulled out a seven-point victory.

Her appearance is not aided by the fact she is scooting around due to a broken foot but that is for another story.

Triplett has been a mentor on the hardwood for over 30 seasons and this squad may well be her most inexperienced. She dresses nine freshmen, one sophomore, one junior and two seniors on the varsity roster. And, one senior will not touch the court until December as she rehabs from an injury.

Triplett, who has hung three banners in the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium, is trying to mesh a young inexperienced group with a few older players and create chemistry.

Triplett commented, "I want us to improve and get better each day on the court so we can see the maturity from the beginning of the season to the end. That way the girls can see their tangible growth in basketball. I knew coming in that we would be young and missing one of our experienced players until after the season started. They are young and making mistakes but we need to remember they are freshmen."

Dasha Barnes and Kylarn Kilpatrick are returning players with experience but Barnes is rehabbing from injury and will not hit the court until December. That leaves Kilpatrick leading the team and bringing along the younger players.

At a recent game, Jady Sheppard helped complement Kilpatrick and Alayla Meadows stepped up her game in the second half.

Triplett added, "They are playing hard and I am enthused by seeing that. But, we have to work harder so they can see their improvement and grow into it."

The Lady Tigers currently sport a 2-2 record and will be enjoying holiday tournament ball in the near future.

Gelpi inks with Louisiana-Lafayette in soccer

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

Olivia Gelpi, a senior midfielder for the Our Lady Academy Crescents' soccer team, signed a National Letter of Intent to play soccer for the University of Louisiana-Lafayette.

Gelpi commented, "ULL reminds me of OLA in the way that it is nestled in a small community and that community supports everything that the university does. It is also infused with a tremendous amount of culture which is very appealing. Their graduates enter the work force ready to go as the school has several opportunities to get the student a head start in their field of study. I plan to major in petroleum engineering or civil engineering and the school has high ranking programs with each. I am looking forward to being able to study at a school with a highly respected academic program that I wish to pursue while also being able to continue to play the sport that I love."

Gelpi has been involved with varsity soccer at OLA since the eighth grade while also playing volleyball her freshman and sophomore years, running track and field since the seventh grade and taking up cross country her senior year.

She is also involved in the Gulf Coast United Soccer Club, OLA Ambassadors, National Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta, French Honor Society, Student Council and editor of the OLA Yearbook.

Gelpi added, "Hard work, determination, and being a multi-sport athlete has helped me become the best athlete I can be. I have learned to hone my technique from Coach Mike Meyers and my track coaches. Coach Nikki Reeder and Coach Christian Baehr have helped me to use my energy properly and understand my role as a leader and role model to younger students. Coach Shane Kowalski has taught me how to have fun with soccer while also being serious and gain a love to play the game. I am thankful to all who have helped usher me to this transition."

Gelpi has led OLA to the postseason each year she has played varsity soccer. The Crescents have reached the South State championship game for Class 1A/2A/3A the last two seasons. In track and field she earned the complete set at the state track meet last year when she won gold in the 300m hurdles, silver in the 100m hurdles and bronze in the triple jump.

Louisiana-Lafayette ended the 2018 season with an overall record of 3-12-3 and competes in the Sun Belt Conference with Troy University, Georgia Southern University, Texas State University, Louisiana-Monroe, Arkansas State University, Coastal Carolina University, Appalachian State University, Arkansas-Little Rock, and South Alabama.

Olivia Gelpi, seated center, is joined by family, coaches and school administration at her signing on Wednesday.

North Bay Elementary honors veterans

VETERANS SAT ON THE STAGE AT THE GYMNASIUM DURING THE PROGRAM.

BY IMANI BROWN
SEA COAST ECHO JUNIOR REPORTER

North Bay Elementary on Wednesday hosted a Veterans Day program. NBE principal Jeremy Weir welcomed and thanked veterans for coming. The veterans sat on the stage in the gymnasium.

Weir recognized the different branches of the military, and once their respective branch was called, veterans would stand. Different students read poems about veterans. Weir also talked about the sacrifices families made.

Soon after, the school played a video that showed different veterans, including Weir, talking about what went on during their service. The video can be viewed on YouTube and is titled "Tribute to Veterans" by Cameron Adams.

Weir mentioned veterans who have passed away and the Fallen Comrade Table. The Fallen Comrade Table honors members of the military killed in action, prisoners of war, or those missing in action. Weir thanked the veterans for protecting our rights and the right to come to school every day.

Veteran Joe Duteil served in the Army during World War Two. He was drafted when he was 18 and sent to Europe. He said he received two battle stars.

"I enjoyed what I did," Duteil said.

He said Wednesday's program was very inspirational.

Herbert Starr served in the Air Force and said he enjoys getting together with other service people.

Weir served in the Army for eight-and-a-half years. He was stationed in Iraq and said it was "very scary."

"I was proud to serve with the other men and women in my unit," Weir said. "I would absolutely do it again."

Hancock County Senior Citizens Center hosts Thanksgiving dinner

Photos by Cassandra Favre

The Hancock County Senior Citizens Center on Wednesday served up a hearty Thanksgiving meal for seniors. The traditional meal also included the opportunity to spend time with friends. Center Director Arlene Johnson also remembered 105-year-old Oreader Richardson, who passed away Wednesday morning. Richardson was an active member of the center and an "aunt" to everyone, Johnson said.

Thanksgiving Is All about the Sides

BY LINDA BIGLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

First, I need to correct some amounts from last week's column. Apparently, fractions are difficult to come through from my computer to the final layout of the paper. Wherever there is a question mark, a measurement for an ingredient needs to be replaced. The amount of pepper in the carrot soup should be one half teaspoon. The soup should have three fourths cup of sauerkraut, 12 ounces of both chopped corned beef and Swiss cheese, and on fourth pound of butter. Everyone has their favorite way of cooking their turkey. Some fry it while others brine it and then bake it. Regardless how you cook the big bird, you always need something to serve alongside of it. When preparing your mashed potatoes, try adding some truffle oil or truffle butter and use half and half instead of milk. Here are two recipes that will be a welcome addition to any Thanksgiving table. Bourbon Sweet Potatoes

8 large sweet potatoes baked, peeled and sliced
8 ounces melted butter, never margarine
4 ounces bourbon
1 cup orange juice
One half cup white sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 teaspoon cinnamon
One half teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
One half teaspoon salt
One fourth teaspoon black pepper
Place the sweet potatoes in a large buttered casserole dish. Combine melted butter with remaining ingredients and pour over the sweet potatoes. Stir to combine. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Remove from oven and serve or top with marshmallows and return to oven for about 5 minutes or until marshmallows are browned and puffy. Serves 8 to 10

Green Beans with Bacon
2 pounds frozen whole green beans
One teaspoon salt for cooking green beans
Six slices of bacon
1 small onion finely chopped

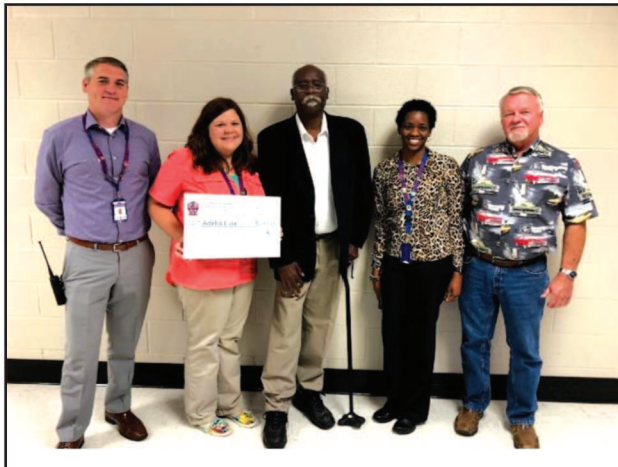

1 small green pepper finely chopped
1 clove minced garlic
2 tablespoons chopped flat leaf parsley
One teaspoon Creole seasoning
1 cup water
Cook green beans in boiling, salted water for about five minutes. Drain and set aside.
Cook bacon until crisp, reserving drippings (I cook my bacon in the oven at 375 on a rimmed baking sheet for about 15 minutes).
Crumble bacon and set aside.
Over medium heat, sauté onion and green pepper in bacon drippings until softened, add garlic and sauté an additional minute.

Add green beans, parsley, and Creole seasoning. Toss to coat with bacon drippings. Add water, cover and cook over low heat to desired doneness, about five or ten minutes. Sprinkle with crumbled bacon just before serving.
Do not count your calories on Thanksgiving, count your blessings instead.

The Gulf Coast Community Foundation oversees the Dr. Philip Terrell Excellence in Education fund, which was established in honor of Dr. Philip Terrell, a long-time educator who brought the school district to state and national acclaim during his tenure as Superintendent. Following Dr. Terrell's early medical retirement, the community and educators came together to find a way to continue Dr. Terrell's legacy. The Dr. Philip Terrell Excellence in Education Fund was established with donations, and its ongoing solvency is maintained by district employees who overwhelmingly choose to participate via payroll deductions. The power of many giving a little ($1 - $3 per paycheck) keeps the fund solvent and the dream alive. The amount of each grant, funded from the Dr. Philip Terrell Excellence in Education Fund, has increased over the years since its inception in 2002.

Dr. Philip Terrell, Mr. Skip King, Pass Christian Public School District Board of Trustees Secretary, and school administrators surprised each of the teachers in the presence of their students on Tuesday, October 23, 2018, to announce their grant selection and to award each a "check" for the grant amount up to $1,500.00.

Educators in the Pass Christian School District are encouraged to participate in the annual Dr. Philip Terrell Excellence in Education Teacher Grant program by submitting their ideas for innovative ways to improve student achievement.

Adelia Luke, educator at Pass Christian High School, designed a project called "A Flexible Flip:

Creating a Unique Learning Environment for Special Education Students" Special education students will be provided the option for flexible seating while in Ms. Luke's classroom.

Lori Fisher, Michele Rogers, and Brandon Warden, educators at Pass Christian Middle School, plan to create an after-school club for 6th-8th graders to provide hands-on robotic experiences that will stimulate communication, creativity, collaboration, and critical thinking skills. It is their vision to ignite the natural curiosity of students by sharpening their scientific inquiry, engineering design, and data analysis skills so that the students can realize their full potential as not only confident digital citizens but also as leaders of tomorrow.

Marti Ladner, educator at Pass Christian Elementary, will use her grant money to provide more hands-on activities in the science classroom by installing a portable sink. "Water Floats Our Boats" aims to provide more experiments and demonstrations for students to increase understanding of practical science applications.

Mary Beth Kinsey, educator at DeLisle Elementary wants to provide her students with motivation to face the mountain of a challenge that she knows writing can be and to journey through the climb with perseverance and confidence, knowing that the mountaintop is something noteworthy and unique. "Classroom Authors: Holding Their Voice in Their Hands" allows students to publish a book that contains individual student writings using an online publishing tool. Each student will receive a copy of the published book upon completion of the project.

Alyson Austin, educator at DeLisle Elementary, designed a plan to provide hands-on and inquiry-based learning activities in the science lab. She will utilize her funds to purchase materials and equipment that can be used at all grade levels for science. All students will be actively engaged with the use of manipulatives through discovery learning experiences.

Chief Operations Officer Meredith Bang, along with Dr. Philip Terrell and School Board of Trustees surprises Ms. Kinsey with her grant award.

Meet Buddy, a happy, playful boy who always wears a smile and never meets a stranger, whether it be a new human or canine friend. He's also a hugger, and a full body hugger at that. This sweet natured, 2 year old Labrador Retriever/Hound mix was surrendered by his owners because of "inadequate housing and space" and through no fault of his own. Because he is an active pup, we do recommend a home with a fenced backyard, so Buddy may romp-n-play and get the exercise he needs to be a happy, healthy dog. However, he is a companion dog and should be treated as part of the family and not just relegated to the backyard in isolation. Buddy thrives on affection and attention, and deserves a loving family, or a BFF, who will spend quality time with him. He loves going for walks, playing with toys, and cuddling. He was a star at our weekly adoption event at Pet Smart, meeting many new doggie pals and playing with some pretty cute kiddos. Buddy will need additional house training, but he was well behaved in his kennel while at Pet Smart. Please consider adopting this incredible dog. He is ready to bond with his true forever family. Call 466 4516 for more information on Buddy, or visit him at the shelter at 7175 Texas Flat Rd, Kiln. You will fall in love with his good looks and winning personality. Visit our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to see more pictures of Buddy, and of the many other wonderful animals looking for their forever homes.

I'LL SEE YOU ON THE OTHER SIDE

BY GARY ANDREWS
GARY@GADEVOTIONALS.COM

When my wife's aunt was on her death bed, her son was to leave and go on a mission trip to Africa. Being the youngest of four children, he didn't want to leave his momma however they agreed he should go. Before he left he leaned and whispered in his mother's ear. "Should you leave before I get back I will see you on the other side."

What a tremendous testimony this family has because of their belief in the Lord Jesus Christ and knowing that this earthly journey is not the end. Being a Christian gives us the assurance that we will one day be reunited with our loved ones in the presence of our Lord. The Apostle Paul tells us in 1 Corinthians 13 about the Greatest Gift and what love is. In verses 11-12 he says, "When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childish things. For now we see in a mirror, dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part, but then I shall know just as I also am known."

Paul tells us that when we study God's Word we began with a lack of understanding. The more we are into His Word the more we grow. Our faith in God becomes ever present as we mature and understand that life on the earth is short and then living with Him will be eternal. We may not understand it fully and through the reflections of our self we may view being in heaven with Him dimly, but understanding that when we arrive to see Him we will have the full grace and knowledge of heaven.

I have read in several articles that say 9 out of 10 people believe in heaven and hell. It amazes me that if this many people believe in this, then why are there so much hate and crime in our society? What seems to be the problem with accepting Jesus by faith knowing that this life is not the final destination?

The family I mentioned above knows that Christ is real and that someday all of them are going to stand in His presence. When this son knew with a good amount of certainty that his momma would leave this earth before he came home he also knew that he would see her again in heaven. His decision about sharing God's Word to others in a different country was not hard to make. Prayer: Thank you Lord for each day you give us on this earth. You have blessed us in so many ways and offered your grace to us, just for the asking. Amen.
